Partnering with schools to self-manage property services

Megan Reid & Darryn Gray (New Zealand School Property Agency)

This session will explore how the establishment of the New Zealand School Property Agency (NZSPA) is changing the way we work with schools and opening opportunities for greater involvement in managing their property. We'll share insights from partnering with schools to design future services, and what this is showing us about how schools want to be involved in planning and delivery to achieve more effective, efficient, and locally responsive property outcomes.
